

JOHNSON-SHEA COMPANY IS AWARDED CONTRACT FOR FAIRMOUNT BOULEVARD

The contract for the improvement of Fairmount boulevard, from first street to Whittier place, was awarded by the city council this morning to the Johnson-Shea company of Riverside, on a bid of $15,388.79.

There were four other bidders—the Shull-Tucker company of Riverside, $19,003.71; Highway Construction Company of Redlands, $17,804.62; S. C. Construction company of Los Angeles, $16,274.13, and Heinauer & Kyle of Watts, $19,772.85.

The improvement is to consist of macadam roadway, cement sidewalks, curb and gutter, catch basins and drains, and a complete single light ornamental lighting system.

Johnson-Shea's bid on the lighting system was exceptionally low, totaling only $900, as against $1900, the bid of Heinauer & Kyle, the next lowest on this item.

The Johnson-Shea company is prepared to commence work on this important work just as soon as legal requirements can be complied with.

Reduce Polcene's Salary The finance committee, after due consideration of the matter, reported in favor of a reduction in the salary of Patrolman W. G. Polcene, who is being carried on the police force roll despite his incapacity, from $90 to $50 per month.

Offers Compromise E. O. Stansell submitted an offer of compromise of his claim against the city at $800, giving the city until July 3rd to decide, at which date he threatened to commence suit for the full amount of his claim, about three times as large as his compromise offer.

Mr. Stansell claims that his chicken ranch on North Main street was severely damaged by storm water, claiming that it was not properly cared for and that out of 1200 hens he lost 600.

The matter was referred to the city attorney. Suggests Saving A communication was received from Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Degerholm suggesting that business licenses be paid directly to the city treasurer and save the expense of collection by the police department. The suggestion was taken under advisement.

Still After Ambulance Dr. C. Van Zwalenburg, determined not to let the motor ambulance project "die a-borning," addressed another communication to the council urging the acceptance of the Glenwood Garage's offer to furnish the city with an automobile ambulance at a charge of $10 per month.

Gifford Wants Vacation Building Inspector E. M. Gifford asked for his first vacation in five years' service with the city, to attend the meeting of the state housing institute in San Francisco on July 19th. He asks for a two weeks' leave of absence and expenses equal to railroad fare. The matter was referred to committee for report next meeting.

To Buy Fire Hose Chief Schneider of the fire department, one of the department chiefs who is coming through the year with a balance in his fund, was authorized to expend $400 of his excess in the purchase of 500 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose and one dozen coats for use by "call men" cutting $45. The new hose will enable him to properly equip the stations at Arlington, Casa Blanca and Pachappa.

To Use Streets At the request of Mrs. O. L. Moorman, the council agreed to have portions of Cypress avenue and New Magnolia avenue closed to permit the parking of autos for the Yaw concert Wednesday night.

North Market Improvement The map of the proposed improvement on North Market street, first to Ridge road, was referred to the street committee.

Bids on July 11 A resolution was adopted calling for bids on the Twelfth street improvement, Main to Lemon, on July 11th.

East Side Lighting Paid Bill for $12,915.94 from the electric light department was allowed, and funds in the city treasurer's office in that amount will be turned over. This is for the East Side ornamental lighting system.

Band Will Get Appropriation Council voted to include $2160 in the next year's budget for the regular program of band concerts. Councilmen Strickler and Brown opposed this, saying that expenses were being out in other directions and should be in this. The majority of the council, however, thought the band concerts were well worthy of continuance.

Much Sidewalk Needed City Engineer Campbell reported that there were $0,000 lineal feet of sidewalk still to be constructed within the mile square. Matter of recommendation was left to the street committee.

Raise Garage License The matter of raising the garage license to $6 per quarter and reducing the filling station license to $4 was referred to the city attorney to prepare an ordinance.

PRETTIEST OF ALL IN RELIEF BAZAAR

MISS FLORENCE FAIR

Miss Fair is regarded the prettiest of all girls taking part in the allied bazaar in New York to raise funds for relief work in Europe. Miss Fair, in nurse costume, is stationed at the booth for the French wounded emergency fund. The bazaar has already raised $1,000,000 and is on its second lap.

that the healing effect followed the understanding of the divine Principle and of the corporeal Jesus. And she adds almost immediately in the same paragraph: "The outsiders did not then, and do not now, understand this ruling of the Christ; therefore they cannot demonstrate God's healing power." The outsiders, it will be recalled, and outsiders, means, surely, anyone who does not accept spiritual healing as practical and handed down by Jesus the Christ—the outsiders, in the days of Peter and John, failed to understand the Christy method of healing the sick which they used, and looked to their personality. These two faithful demonstrators of God's healing power had, as the account in Acts tells us, healed instantaneously a man "lame from his mother's womb," and all the people ran together "greatly wondering."

"And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk? The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, hath glorified his Son Jesus; and his name, through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all."

Healing Ability to All God's healing power is thus seen to be available to every man. Because some men know more about it, and bring it more into their lives and the lives of others, than some other men, that fact does not operate to shut it away from any person anywhere, nor does it tend to concentrate in a person or a locality the ever-available, everywhere present healing of divine Principle. God's healing power simply cannot be monopolized, if anyone should desire it, because it is omnipresent. Existing everywhere, it cannot exist less in one place or for one person, than in any other place or for any other person. No one can understand divine Principle so well that another cannot understand it just as well. It is free for all and all are sooner or later to possess an understanding of it, for, as Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 565): "The impersonation of the spiritual idea had a brief history in the earthly life of our Master; but of his kingdom there shall be no end." For Christ, God's idea, will eventually rule all nations and peoples, imperatively, absolutely, finally—with divine Science.

FASHIONS There are fashions in medicine as well as in millinery. The old time cathartic pills with their harsh drastic effects have gone out, and it is high time that they had. In their place we have the mild laxatives and gentle cathartics of which Chamberlain's Tablets is one of the most popular. When the proper dose is taken the effect of these tablets is so agreeable and so natural that you do not realize that it has been produced by a medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets also strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

GOOD ROADS BILL AGREED ON WASHINGTON, June 27.—The senate this afternoon agreed to the good roads bill appropriating $75,000,000 to be spent in five years in co-operation with the states in construction of highways. An additional $10,000,000 is to be added for roads in national parks.

DIARRHOEA For this disease you will find Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy unsurpassed. One or two doses of it are nearly always sufficient to check the attack. It is not disagreeable to take. This remedy contains no astringent and for that reason leaves the bowels in a natural condition. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

HIGHGROVE (Daily Press Special News Service) HIGHGROVE, June 27.—El Navarro Tennis club had a merry hayride Friday evening, their destination being Fairmount park. They carried with them well filled lunch baskets which were opened after the amusements of the park had been enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cooper, Mrs. J. L. Bishop and Mrs. Elizabeth Siddall chaperoned the young people who numbered about 25. Mitchell Greene, a 12-year-old boy, gave a fine exhibition of cool-headedness and grit Saturday when he stopped a runaway team of mules on Iowa avenue. A. W. Allen had the team and big wagon and was loading wood. His little granddaughter was with him and was alone on the wagon when the team became frightened and started running. Naturally the old gentleman was nearly beside himself over the peril of the little girl and his inability to rescue her. Word was phoned in to Highgrove that the team was headed that way. Several men started out in an auto to intercept them. In the meantime, however, Mitchell Greene had seen the runaway and endeavored to stop them by standing in the road facing them. Seeing he was about to be run down he jumped to one side and swung onto the bridge as they passed him. He succeeded in bringing them to a standstill and held them until Mr. Allen arrived. The little girl was frightened but not hurt.

Capt. Morey Tells His Story of Thrilling Experiences

FIELD HEADQUARTERS (via radio to Columbus, N. M.), June 27.—Captain Lewis S. Morey of Troop K, of the 10th cavalry, the sole officer to survive the fight with Carranzista forces near Carrizal, today sat on the edge of his bunk in the thatched hut that is the headquarters of the American forces, and told an attentive group of fellow officers the details of the first real tragedy of this campaign.

Captain Morey had spent the night in the hospital after his arrival here by automobile late Sunday afternoon. Today, with his blood-stained shirt cleaned, and his body refreshed and calm, he was able to be about camp with his left shoulder, through which a Mauser bullet passed, swathed in bandages.

He first visited General Pershing, then visited the regiment in what will probably be one of the most remarkable reunions of the campaign. As he walked through the company streets, flanked by tents and curious-looking men and officers, he was not cheering, no music, but from each group he passed some officer with eager face stepped forth and grasped Captain Morey's unmaimed hand, exclaiming: "Glad you're back. Congratulations." Those were simple words, but they were fervent, for no man of this command had believed Captain Morey would ever be with them again.

Captain Morey told his story slowly, with superb restraint and modesty. He blamed no one, drew no conclusions and offered no suggestions as to what should have been done. He added little to the tale of the fight except to say that Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Henry Adair died like men and that, in the firing that followed the Mexican attack, the Carranzistas seemed to be centering their fire on the white soldiers.

Captain Morey's troop was on the right flank when the "ball opened," as he expressed it, and he could follow the charge of Troop C, under Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Adair only to the fringe of brush into which men and horses disappeared.

"Men of Troop C tell me," he said, "that Lieutenant Adair died in an irrigation ditch with his head held by a non-commissioned officer. There was water in the ditch and Adair would have pitched forward into it had he not been supported. I understand the non-commissioned officer left Adair in the ditch at his order and went forward toward Carrizal. Looking back he saw Adair with glazed eyes and his head wobbling against the sides of the ditch. So he went back and stayed with him until he died."

"Captain Boyd was killed when his troops made a rush for the trench in which the Carranzistas had machine guns. Just how he died, I do not know."

Morey told how his own small detachment, fighting on their bellies, withdrew until Morey, wounded in the shoulder, found himself with seven men behind an adobe wall near a dry water hole, offering protection from bullets, but not from the sun. Three hundred yards to the south were the Carranzistas, some mounted and some afoot, firing as they advanced, emboldened by the Americans' retirement.

"When I got behind the wall," resumed Morey, "I told the men I purposed to stay there. Those who wished to go, I told to go."

Four men, including one who was wounded, elected to try to escape, and Captain Morey said he saw them ascending a hill toward the north.

"I never saw men act so strangely," said Captain Morey. "They did not run or seem to exert themselves in any way. They simply moved away uphill as if dazed, and by doing so probably saved us. We who remained behind the wall noticed Carranza horsemen riding out to flank them. It was apparent that some of the Carranzistas had seen us take refuge behind the wall, and noting four trying to escape went in pursuit, leaving us unmolested."

Morey and three black troopers lay in that hole behind the wall all the longest day of the year without water, while the enemy beat the country on all sides. Night came on and with it a drop in temperature. Under the stars the wounded officer and his men started west in the first relay of the 75-mile journey to the American lines.

Captain Morey was so weak he could walk only 300 yards at each stretch, and as night wore on he decided it was humanly impossible for him to go farther. He first requested the men to leave him and when they refused, he ordered them to leave. The three negroes obeyed the order. Captain Morey wound his bandage about his shoulder as best he could and lay down to sleep on the desert. The stars were still shining, but dawn was touching the sky when he awoke a little strengthened. He forced himself to his feet and staggered in the direction in which he thought lay Santa Domingo ranch, eight miles from Carrizal, the point where the command bivouacked the night before the fight.

The ranch was deserted when he arrived there at 4:30 a. m., but he found food and water. Near the ranch he found five troopers of the 10th cavalry. They were making their way for a ranch at San Luis, 35 miles away, when they found J. T. McCabe, manager of the ranch, who drove them to San Luis. There they were joined by Captain Howze's squadron of the 11th cavalry, sent out by General Pershing to pick them up.

IF TOO FAT GET MORE FRESH AIR BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs is hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed. Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result. When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat. Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and get from the Keystone Drug Co., or any druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.—Adv.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE THE ONLY HEALING POWER (Written for the Christian Science Monitor) Although it has been repeated so often that it seems trite to some people, nevertheless it is imperative to a correct understanding of Christian Science to know without question that it is not a person, be he teacher, practitioner, Christian Science nurse, or a learner in Christian Science, who heals, but God alone. This outstanding feature of Christian Science is peculiar to Christian Science, for can it be said of any other healing system that its healing power is dependent solely upon God, divine Principle? There are those, of course, who seek to justify their reliance upon material means of healing by the argument that God furnishes the herbs, minerals, and poisonous elements which so to make up the pharmacopoeia of the various material healing systems of today. But the truth-seeking Christian is not long in asking such a one to point out the Scriptural authority for the attempt to foist upon God the responsibility for the combined good and evil which are admitted to result from the use of drugs. It is, of course, simply impossible for a user of material means in healing ever logically to base his practice upon the Scriptures. Jesus the Christ, the great Physician, did not use drugs nor advocate the use of others. At least one of his followers abandoned the practice of material medicine for that of spiritual healing, and the narrative of the innumerable cases of healing in the New Testament can never be so perverted as to support any system that uses matter, or its higher attenuation, mortal mind, as a healing agency. God the Only Healer The faithful practitioners of Christian Science, through whose labors God's healing power is perhaps being most noticeably brought to the ap-
