

Scientist Discusses Citrus Fertilizer

Forty-five citrus growers attended a meeting in the Lincoln school last night, arranged by M. M. Winslow, county farm adviser, to consider questions relating to fertilizer experiments.

The speaker was Dr. Homer D. Chapman, head of the division of chemistry at the Citrus Experiment station. His discussion, based on experiment station studies and tests, related to the need of citrus trees for phosphorus and potash and the role played by so-called "minor elements" in a fertilizer program.

Dr. Chapman described different nitrogen carriers, such as urammon and nitrates, and reviewed single versus multiple applications of nitrogen.

Relative to the use of organic matter—cover crop or manure—in relation to cultivation and non-cultivation, the speaker referred to the practice of certain growers, notably in the Redlands district, who do not cultivate their groves. Dr. Chapman did not recommend this practice as a general thing, in the light of experience to date.

As to the use of phosphorus, there is no indication, it was stated, that it is needed in citrus soils in this district. There was said to be indications that there has been some small response from the use of potash at the station on plots where the trees get no manure or other organic matter.

Reservations Due For Chamber Event

Reservations for the monthly luncheon of the Riverside County Chamber of Commerce at Coachella on Tuesday are due tomorrow, it is announced by Col. John H. Pirie, managing secretary of the organization.

Ed Ainsworth, Los Angeles newspaper columnist, is to be speaker of the day at the meeting, with his subject being "As I See Riverside County."

"The desert flowers have been especially beautiful this year and should still be worth seeing along the Palm Springs to Coachella highway. This route will also take members through a number of well developed date gardens," said Pirie.

The Coachella Valley Woman's clubhouse, on U. S. Highway 99 at Avenue 52, is to be the scene of the meeting. Luncheon is to be served at 12:15 o'clock.

Annual Wistaria Fete to Open at Sierra Madre

Millions of deep lavender blossoms have commenced popping from their green but-jacks on Sierra Madre's world famous wistaria vine, and tomorrow is the opening date for the twentieth annual Wistaria fete.

Hazel Hurst, the blind girl whose foundation for the blind is now building a school for the training of guide dogs at Monrovia, will reign as Sierra Madre's first wistaria queen. Over Easter weekend the Junior Woman's club will choose the pretty girls to form Miss Hurst's court of honor. The coronation ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday, March 31.

The blooming of the big vine, over its acre of sprawling tendrils, is a horticultural miracle. Special vitamin injections have succeeded in bringing the flowers out well in advance of the other California wistarias, and in an even richer hue than before.

Europe Prepares for 'Total War'

The age-old European struggle for economic supremacy now crackles with the electricity of drama—suspense. Millions of people are working toward the trial by arms—more terrible than any of those of history. To prepare for, to limit or to profit from the outcome of the trial, the sleeky diplomats scurry and whisper in corners. The world's backstairs were never so crowded—or so slippery. A "total war" unrestrained is something new, even for the diplomats and other students of history. Pitiless and heartless, the diplomats of warring nations will attempt to draw every nation of Europe into the fray. A "total war" can only mean one thing—that all Europe will be bankrupt and slip backward a thousand years in progress and the finer things of life.

Rubidoux Trails to Open at 3 O'clock

Trails up Mt. Rubidoux will not be open for use until 3 o'clock Sunday morning, Chief of Police Nestor N. Brule announced today in revealing police arrangements for the annual Easter sunrise service.

The mountain is to be patrolled by police, firemen and Poly high ROTC students in preventing pedestrian access to the scene of the Easter rites until that hour, Brule asserted.

Automobile traffic up the mountain will be permitted from 2:30 a.m. until 5:30 a.m., when the road will be closed, not to be reopened until after the conclusion of the sunrise services at 6:25 o'clock, the chief of police declared.

Cooperation with officials in observing these regulations will aid in the handling of the increased traffic caused by the attendance of many outsiders at the Easter services, Brule said. The services will start at 5:30 o'clock.

It is estimated that during January, 1940, 260,000 new passenger cars were registered.

Damages Sought for Accident Injuries

An accident at Rutile street and Jurupa avenue near Pedley on March 26, 1939, was the basis of a suit for in excess of $15,000 damages filed in superior court today.

When the accident occurred, the plaintiffs were riding in a truck west on Jurupa avenue, and the defendant was driving a coupe north on Rutile street, it is alleged.

The two cars collided through the asserted negligence of the defendant, it is claimed by the plaintiffs' counsel, A. V. Falcone of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Savello seeks $10,000 damages for personal injuries, particularly to her spine and ribs. Further damages are sought for medical costs and injuries received by Savello himself.

Sutton Case Jury Hears Arguments

Rival counsel argued before the superior court jury of 10 women and two men today in the trial of John A. Sutton, Indio railroad employee.

Sutton is charged with negligent homicide, felonious driving while intoxicated and hit and run driving involving personal injury. The accusations relate to a fatal automobile accident in Indio in which Mrs. Grace Douds, cafe waitress, was killed.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Russell S. Waite, conducting the prosecution, contends that Sutton, driving negligently while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, drove his car into the rear of a truck, resulting in the death of Mrs. Douds, a passenger in Sutton's car, and then left the scene before officers arrived.

Thomas W. Cochrane, defense counsel, argued that Sutton was not intoxicated, but was in truth seriously injured in the accident, causing him to walk unsteadily and appear dazed after the collision.
